

BRAINWAVE – YEAR 3

---

Websites

---

www.redreef.com/k8stuff.html

A website to find books and good brainy things such as a gelatine demonstration brain.

www.photovault.com/Link/Health/anatomy/Nervous/HaNVolume01.html

Photovault website provides a range of pictures of the brain.

www.faculty.washington.edu/chudler/neurok.html

The Neuroscience for Kids website. One of the best all-round site for elementary children to go to, with lots of information and games. You can also subscribe to a regular Neuroscience for Kids e-newsletter.

www.brainconnection.positscience.com

Brain Connection website is a general site for adults and teachers.

www.serendip.brynmawr.edu/bb

The Serendip website features a selection of articles and papers about the brain and learning, aimed at adults.

www.fi.edu/learn.html

The Franklin Institute's website has brain information for children and teachers.

www.atozteacherstuff.com/stuff/brain.shtml

A website which describes teachers' attempts to introduce brain-related ideas into classrooms.

Books

---

The Mind Map Book, by Buzan, Tony and Barry, BBC Active, 2006

A good introduction to mind mapping.

Teaching With the Brain In Mind, by Eric Jensen, Atlantic Books, 1988

A very good general introduction to the brain and learning for teachers.

Big Head, by Peter Rowan, Bodley Head Children's Books, 1998

Lots of pictures and overlays. Really for 11+ children but very good.

It's All In Your Head, by Susan Barrett, Free Spirit Publishing, Inc. 1996

A book aimed again at older children but with a little skill you can adapt much of it for younger children. You might also find useful A Teachers Guide to It's All in Your Head.

The Brain Pack, by Ron Van Der Meer and Ad Dudink, Courage Books, 2000

Contains pop-up models and lots of activities.